February 17, 2009 analog television broadcast cease

You may have to take action

Full-power analog television broadcast will cease and many TV sets will no longer be able to receive over-the-air signals. That date will mark the completion of a transition to digital TV, or DTV, mandated by Congress.

DTV is an advanced technology that allows broadcasters to provide higher quality pictures and sound, as well as advanced services such as transmission of multiple video streams or other data over a single channel. DTV also makes more efficient use of the airwaves and the FCC will make the airwaves that are freed up by this transition available for advanced communications services for commercial and public safety use.

The transition to DTV is underway now, and it is not too early to start preparing.

To learn more about the special convert box program call 888-388-2009 or log on to <http://www.ntia.doc.gov/dtvcoupon>

To learn more about DTV call 888-835-5322 or log on to <http://www.dtv.gov/>

(If you are a present WIN Video Customer, no action is needed.)

Telephone Assistance

Eligible low-income households can receive financial help with the cost of phone installation and basic local phone service. Two federal programs and one state program provide funding for this type of assistance. The federal Link Up program offers a discount off the cost of installing a phone. The federal and state Lifeline programs provide a monthly discount off the cost of basic local phone service. To qualify for these credits, the subscriber must verify their participation in one of the following government programs: Federal Housing Assistance Program, Food Stamps, Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), Medicaid or Supplemental Security Income (SSI).
